Mantras
Vibrations For Your Soul

Guru Vishnu
What is Mantra?

Mantra, in a sacred utterance (syllable, word, or verse) that is considered to possess mystical or spiritual efficacy. Mantra, whether chanted, whispered, or silently recited, is a powerful meditation and therapy tool.

Mantras are either repeated continuously for a period of time or just sounded once. Most mantras are without an apparent verbal meaning, but are thought to have a profound underlying significance and are in effect distillations of spiritual wisdom.

Thus, repetition of or meditation on a particular mantra can induce a trance-like state that leads to a higher level of spiritual awareness and enlightenment. Mantras can be used for many psychic or spiritual purposes, such as protecting oneself from evil psychic powers. One of the most powerful and widely used mantra is the sacred syllable “om”. The principal mantra in Buddhism is “om mani padme hūm”.

Mantras continue to be an important feature of Hindu religious rites and domestic ceremonies. Initiation into many Hindu sects involves the whispering of a secret mantra into the ear of the initiate by the guru. Mantras are thought to be only truly efficacious when they are received verbally from one’s guru or spiritual teacher.
What is the importance of Mantras in your life?

The word mantra comes from the Sanskrit language and can be broken down into two parts: “manas,” which means mind, and “tra,” which means transport or vehicle. One could interpret this as an instrument or vehicle that helps transport or elevate the mind. Many experience a mantra as a way to retreat from the regular mind and to deepen the faculties of intuition, spiritual strength, and happiness.

How is a mantra revealed?

The seers who received the Word were blessed with its power. The ingested power manifested spontaneously in the seers actions and speech which innately attracted aspirants to them and in turn, prepared them to receive the Word. Mantras are repetitive sounds used to penetrate the depths of the unconscious mind and adjust the vibration of all aspects of ones being. Mantras are vibrated through chanting aloud, mental practice, or by listening to them. The experience of how sound vibrations effect your being is Naad yoga.
Is mantra a religion?

There is no generally accepted definition of mantra. That mantras are a religious thought, prayer, sacred utterance, but also believed to be a spell or weapon of supernatural power.

How many types of mantra’s are there?

There are three main types of mantras, Bija (seed), Saguna (with form), and Nirguna (without form). The Bija mantras can be used individually; but, are most often incorporated into Saguna mantras to invest them with a special “seed” power.
A personal or unique mantra is another way of approaching the practice and benefiting from it. Just as is true of thoughts, there are no right or wrong mantras. Your mantra is based on personal experience, and holds power as an individual and unique expression of what you most desire. Whether it be aimed at manifesting security, deep connection, pervasive self-confidence, or release from suffering, the only requirement of a mantra is that it is authentic.

In Kaliyuga it is rare to find spiritual masters or Seers that existed in the past. Genuine gurus do exist in this age; however, most have chosen to live their lives in seclusion.

The good news is that the greatest Guru is the Supreme who lives within each of us. Everyone has access to the same intuitive guidance within. Mantras are a great vehicle to connect us to our own inner Guru that lives in each of our hearts.

Even if you do not have a Guru, the initiation into one’s own mantra practise is a commitment and a way of life. You will find with sustained faith and a practise you will slowly begin to hear the whispers of your own inner Guru’s guidance and wisdom within.
What are the Neurological Effects of Mantra on the Brain?

Ever wonder what you’re chanting during yoga class that always seems to instill a profound sense of calm? The very reason behind this with respect to the neurosciences, as how the mantras make potent additions to your yogic practices.

Neuroscientists, equipped with advanced brain-imaging tools, are beginning to quantify and confirm some of the health benefits of this ancient practice, such as its ability to help free your mind of background chatter and calm your nervous system.

Can Mantras heal my body?

Our bodies have ancient built-in mechanisms designed to defend and repair ourselves. Mantras are sacred sounds that are known to impact our vibration, frequency, and energy at a cellular level and may offer a vital role in healing the body, mind and spirit. Mantras are said to have spiritual and psychological powers that work on the level of consciousness and can be vital in the overall healing process. Mantras turn around negative, repulsive vibrations into more positive and attractive vibrations which generates a much better environment for the healing process.
Why Mantras are important in yoga?

Mantra repetition is a powerful tool for yoga practitioners who wish to deepen their study. The idea is to use sound to focus your mind on something bigger than yourself. The idea is that mantras are intrinsically related to sound. Mantra is sound, and sound is echoing in everything in the universe.

What is Japa?

Japa is an ancient practice in which a mantra or the name of a deity is recited either silently or aloud. The Sanskrit word is derived from the root, jap, meaning “to repeat quietly and internally.”

Japa yoga combines yoga with japa. It is believed that practicing Japa yoga removes the impurities of the mind, and ultimately results in samadhi, or communion with God, when practiced regularly.
What are the rules for doing japa?

It is best to first take a bath or wash your hands, feet, face and mouth before sitting for Japa in the morning. At other times bathing is not absolutely necessary. Japa can be done whenever you have leisure time and at four junctions of the day; morning, noon, evening and before going to bed. Face east or north during the practice.
Should I use mala and what kind of mala for which mantra?

A Mala is a string of beads used to count mantras (Sanskrit prayers) in sets of 108 repetitions as a form of meditation. While this is the primary way to use malas, there are several other ways to practice with them to strengthen your mind and heal your mind, body, and heart. Most of these five main techniques can be combined to amplify the mental, spiritual and healing effects of using malas.
What is purascharana and how to do it?

Purascharana is a process in which by Japa of the name of the mantra or Deity is evoked. The mode of repetition of a Mantra with feeling and in a particular manner; a definite number of times, with right observances: until a fixed number of Japa is reached, in order to obtain substantial benefit out of the Mantra, is called Purascharana.
